

Researching into Gandhian
Solutions for Today's Problems

Research Fellowship Program

3 – 6 months
(from August 2022 onwards)

The GRF, an academic institution committed to rural reconstruction, contributes towards sustainable living for India's villages through applied research on political, economic, social, environmental and cultural issues. Situated in rural India, near Jalgaon, the GRF's pollution-free campus, with its verdant garden landscape and mango groves, is veritably an Arcadian idyll. With its comprehensive library and archival collections, complemented by good board and lodging facilities, the GRF provides an environment congenial for conducting intensive Gandhian research. Eligible to apply are international scholars, activists, social workers and public figures.

Thrust Areas of Applied Research:

- Rural regeneration, economic sustainability, skill development, employment creation
- Social-economic and gender issues
- Caste and communal harmony
- Educational innovation
- Health and nutrition revitalisation
- Environmental challenges
- Nonviolent conflict resolution in India and globally
- Alternatively: an allied field of research of contemporary Gandhian relevance
